Agile & Beyond

Understanding Agile methods and learning to apply them situationally

Abhipsa Roy Choudhury

attended a training program on Agile methodologies, consisting of four half-day sessions held in June 2025. The program covered core principles, an overview of established frameworks, hands-on simulations of Agile practices including Scrum, and critical reflections on the situational suitability of these methods. The course was conducted in English and led by experts from research and industry affiliated with the SICP – Software Innovation Campus Paderborn. The SICP is an interdisciplinary research and innovation campus where digital solutions of the future are developed through close collaboration between business and science.
